GROWING TO A RIPE OLD AGE

50 Years in the Garden

EDWARD ENFIELD

ISBN: 978 1 84953 170 2 Hardback 192 pages £9.99 September 2011

'Gardens, in my view, often involve too much gardening. This is partly to do with the nature of human beings, who will make a competition out of anything if they possibly can.'

Edward Enfield has only ever had one garden, but his dealings with it have extended over half a century. He came to his three-quarters of an acre knowing nothing about growing anything, and this book is an account of his horticultural successes and failures, inventions and frustrations.

With wry humour, he leads the reader through the thorny subject of roses, counts the blessings of keeping chickens and exposes the perfidy of gardening copywriters, while offering wise and witty tips on how best to enjoy the fruits of one's labour.

Funny and informative, Edward Enfield's cycling adventures are also available from Summersdale:

GREECE ON MY WHEELS (£8.99, PB)

DAWDLING BY THE DANUBE (£7.99, PB)

DOWNHILL ALL THE WAY (£7.99, PB)

FREEWHEELING THROUGH IRELAND (£7.99, PB)

OLD AGE AND HOW TO SURVIVE IT (£9.99, HB)

'amusing, witty and often well-observed'

The Sunday Telegraph

'Enfield's stories will make you weep with laughter'
